The Parkersburg State Journal Explains a Little Matter That Has Perplexed the Market Street Mis-

Parkersburg State Journal: The Wheeling Register having had a hayseed experience some time back, in which it shed more straw and fodder than it perhaps bargained for, has fought shy in this direction ever since. Its inability to tackle a real warm, cycloule Ritchie county haystack, ought not to make it too cowardly, however. It is scarcely excusable for jumping on to its amiable neighbor, the Intelligencer, in the violent and hysterical way it does this morning, for a thing for which the State Journal is originally solely responsible, the Intelligencer only making its utterance from information in this paper. It was the State Journal that unearthed the McGraw-Chilton combination and not the Intelligencer, and the Register, if it mccraw-children commands and not the Intelligencer, and the Register, if it reads the prominent papers of the country, or rather of the world, ought to know this. Here is the attempt to hold the Intelligencer responsible for the guilt of the State Journal.

"In another column will be found a communication calling attention to an editorial article in the Intelligencer regarding an alleged conference between Colonel John T. McGraw and the Chiltons, in Parkersburg, on Sunday week. Our esteemed correspondent thinks the Register should call attention to the fact that no such conference occurred and could not have occurred, since Mr. McGraw on the date named was in Washington, D. C. Our correspondent mentions other facts in this connection showing the manifest unturthulness and absurdity of the Fourteenth street organ's comments on this alleged conference.

If our correspondent were a regular reader of the Intelligencer he would not take the matter so seriously. This bit of misreoresentation, bail and made reader of the Intelligencer he would not take the matter so seriously. This bit of misrepresentation, hald and made out of the whole cloth as it is, is but a sample of our neighbor's political news. If the Register attempted to correct every misstatement the organ made about Democrats and the Democracy, we would have space for little slee. We fail to recall just how old the organ is, but it is a fact that it hasn't told the truth about a Democrat for over forty years, and it is pather late to break the habit, now."

The Register may not know anything about the important political matters years, and it is sather late to break the habit, now."

The Register may not know anything about the important political matters transpiring in this state, for it takes a live newspaper like the State Journal to keep up with them, and may not believe, of course, that the Chiltons and McGraw have joined forces, but this paper has been in possession of the facts for some time. The date of a conference is not the main question, and to attempt to discredit the real fact because of a discrepancy in the time of its occurring, if there was any, looks like a dodge to evade the real is sue. In fact the whole article of the Register on this important subject, is an evasion of the situation as it is known to exist, and as it has existed for some months.

Col. McGraw and the Chiltons made their alliance some time back, and have held a number of conferences since. The combination intends to direct Democratic politics in West Virginia or know the reason why. It was a matter of surprise when the alliance was made that these two hostile forces should join hands, but all the same they did.

This combination does not intend that either of the Davises—the Democratic Davises—shall be governor of West Virginia. What means the withdrawal of both from the context, as was the case at the time of the Parkersburg conference, if this was not true? They were asked to pull out in favor of Judge Bennett, of Weston,

The Register can not evade the facts in the case by throwing around a lot of froth. It shows by its own article it knew nothing. It cannot in this way discredit those who do.

NEW YORK, Dec, 12.-A special to the Tribune from Washington says: In the hospital reports which reached the war department from Manila is chronicled the first casualty due to falling into a Tagalo pitfall, which con-tained the horrible device of bamboo posts set firmly in the hole and sharpened at the top, for the purpose of im-paling the unwary. The American troops have frequently found such traps on the line of march, and especially in front of insurgent trenches, but instances have been extremely rare in which the bamboo stakes were discovered. Ordinarily the traps have simply been deep holes in the jungle, covered with long grass, and although soldlers have frequently fallen into them. no serious injury has resulted. On October 25, when 45 men of Company II, Nineteenth infantry, were engaged in a reconneissance, and chasing a small band of Tagals from some trenches, Private Peter Karl plunged into such a pit, with its sharpened bamboos, and had his leg and foot severely lacerated, which put him out of the service. Fortunately he did not tumble headlong into the trap, for if he had, in the opinion of the surgical officers, his wounds must certainly have been tatal. which the bamboo stakes were discover-
